

Collaborating on changing cities: Citizen Science as an urban planning ally

Venere Stefania Sanna, Cristina Capineri,
Michela Teobaldi, Giacomo-Maria Salerno, Francesco Di Grazia, Gözde Yıldız

Collaborating on changing cities: Citizen Science as an urban planning ally

Session n. 1 11:00am - 12:30pm

1. On smart engagement: Questions about techno-social praxis on inclusive place-based smart city planning process for climate resilient city.

Jin-Kyu Jung, University of Washington, USA

2. Bi-directional connection between citizens and public authorities through citizen science.

Tom Paul E Goosse, UGent, Belgium

3. 'We will be protagonists': Perspectives from the global south on Citizen-Generated Data (CGD).

Tainã Farias¹, Lalita Kraus, Tomás Donadio¹, Gilberto Viera²

¹Federal University of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; ²The Pontifical Catholic University of Paraná.

4. University societal outreach and citizen science: Open challenges.

Carolina Pacchi, Politecnico di Milano, Italy

Collaborating on changing cities: Citizen Science as an urban planning ally

Session n. 2 16:00pm - 17:30pm

5. Urban gaps in small cities in the UNESCO World Heritage Site "Upper Middle Rhine Valley" – How to address urban vacancies with Citizen Science?

Jonas Birke, Bernhard Köppen, University of Koblenz, Germany

6. From local challenges to regional impact: Engaging teenagers in Citizen Science in Emilia-Romagna

Catia Prandi¹, Michela De Biasio²

¹University of Bologna, Italy; ²Agenda Digitale, Emilia Romagna Region, Italy

7. Integrating citizens into digital climate health technologies: A case study of air quality monitoring platforms

Razieh Rezabeigisani, Sören Becker Philipps, Universität Marburg, Germany

8. Critical reflections on the potential of citizen science in urban water quality investigations

Adwoa Serwaa Ofori¹, Jeremy Auerbach¹, Suzanne Linnane², Reza Tavangar²

¹University College Dublin, Ireland; ²Dundalk Institute of Technology

Thanks and keep in touch!

Venere Stefania Sanna – venere.sanna@unisi.it

Cristina Capineri – cristina.capineri@unisi.it

UNIVERSITÀ
DI SIENA
1240